COUPLES SHOWER

How to Play

A simple plan for a coed shower

1. Write the couple's names over Partner A and Partner B on every sheet before you print copies.
2. As guests arrive: Find the Guest Bingo or the Emoji Picture Quiz, with pens on the table.
3. Main event: the Shoe Game. The couple sits back to back while guests guess.
4. Seated: Who Said It?, Who Knows the Couple Best? or Would They Rather. Trivia works in mixed teams.
5. To close: the Left Right Game. You need one wrapped gift.
6. Host sheets and answer keys are at the back. Fill them in with the couple and keep them out of sight.

COUPLES SHOWER

The Shoe Game

The couple sits back to back, each holding one own shoe and one of the other's. For each question, circle who you think they'll both point to. One point per right guess.

READ ALOUD

Everyone sits in a circle with one wrapped gift. The host reads the story aloud. Pass the gift to the left or to the right each time you hear the word. Whoever holds it at the end keeps it.

The day of the shower, the happy couple woke up late and knew RIGHT away they would have to hurry. One of them grabbed the keys from the LEFT pocket of a jacket, the other grabbed the card from the RIGHT side of the desk, and they LEFT the house together. At the corner they had to choose: LEFT to the bakery or RIGHT to the flower shop? So they split up. One went LEFT, one went RIGHT, and they met back at the car with cupcakes and a bunch of tulips. RIGHT as they pulled away, they remembered the gift bag LEFT on the porch. They turned RIGHT, then LEFT, then RIGHT again, and there it was, RIGHT where they LEFT it. At the party, friends from one side waved from the LEFT door and family from the other side waved from the RIGHT one. “Coats on the LEFT, snacks on the RIGHT,” said the host. The couple found two chairs, sat back to back, and the shoe game began. One of them raised a LEFT shoe, the other raised a RIGHT shoe, and the whole room laughed. Was that the RIGHT answer? Nobody could agree. By the end of the party, only two cupcakes were LEFT. The couple looked LEFT, looked RIGHT, and each took one. Everyone agreed it was the RIGHT call. Now, before anyone has LEFT, there is one more gift to give. Whoever is holding it RIGHT now: it’s yours.
